"The era of confrontation and division of Europe has ended. We declare that henceforth our relations will be founded on respect and co-operation."

Mr. Václav HAVEL (President of the Czech and Slovak Federal Republic): Distinguished Chairman, Distinguished Assembly, Ladies and Gentlemen, the rapid fall of the totalitarian regimes in Central and Eastern Europe, which necessarily led also to Germany's rapid unification, as well as the stormy developments in the Soviet Union, have taken us all by surprise and, as a matter of fact, caught us a little unawares.

Thousands of Europeans rightly presume that in these days radically new prospects are opening for Europe, but they are at the same time feverishly thinking about what concrete steps should be taken to fulfil this hope. At the same time, thousands of Europeans are asking the question whether the newly freed countries of Central and Eastern Europe will not find themselves in a kind of political and security vacuum, whether their fragile and immature democracies will survive and whether they will succeed in coming to terms with countless serious problems ranging from economic to nationality ones which they have inherited from Web OBSE nyní a v budoucnu?

The screenshot shows the OSCE website's main navigation bar with the logo and menu items: NEWSROOM, BLOG, EVENTS, PARTNERSHIPS, NETWORKS, and a search icon. Below the navigation is a secondary menu with links: HOME, WHO WE ARE, WHAT WE DO, WHERE WE ARE, INSTITUTIONS & STRUCTURES, and RESOURCES. The page title is "Home > Resources" and a "RESOURCES" breadcrumb is visible. A social sharing bar includes a "SHARE" button and icons for X, Facebook, LinkedIn, and a language selector set to "English". The main heading is "Resources". A sub-section titled "CSCE/OSCE key documents" contains the text: "Since 1975, a number of key documents on Euro-Atlantic and Eurasian security have been adopted by the CSCE and the OSCE." Below this, it says "Documents issued by the OSCE decision-making bodies" and "Access documents issued by the OSCE decision-making bodies, including documents published during the meetings of the OSCE Summit, the OSCE Ministerial Council, the OSCE Permanent Council, the Forum for Security Co-operation, and by the OSCE Chairperson-in-Office." A "News & Events" section is partially visible on the right.

This screenshot shows a more detailed view of the OSCE Resources page. The top navigation bar includes the OSCE logo and a "back to home" link. The page title is "Resources" and there are links for "Archives" and "Languages". A secondary navigation bar lists "Overview", "All Resources", "Decisions", "Statements", and "Learning". A prominent search bar is present with the placeholder text "Search in Resources" and a yellow "Search" button. Below the search bar are filters for "Documents", "Publications", and "Multimedia", along with an "All filters" button showing 32 items. The main content area is titled "OSCE KEY DOCUMENTS" and contains the text: "Since 1975, a number of key documents on Euro-Atlantic and Eurasian security have been adopted by the CSCE and the OSCE."
